Activity: The National Laboratory for Civil Engineering is a research and development institution belonging to the Portuguese Central Public Administration. This Institution comprises seven departments, being sub-divided into several specific and thematic divisions, covering multiple aspects of Civil Engineering Sciences, Social Sciences and Environment Aspects. The Acoustics and Lighting Division is one of these divisions (integrated in the LNEC Buildings Department), and it is dedicated to develop consulting and research activities in the following fields: Building Acoustics, Environmental Acoustics, Architectural Acoustics, Noise Control and Vibration and Human Response to Noise and Vibration, supporting both the development of national private industry and the implementation of main public works, in what concerns all the aspects related to noise.
